Thank you, Marcia.

Here is the information about dates that I've compiled so far – there are a lot of moving pieces.

With approval of petitions today, it starts a 120-day time period for the proponents to collect signatures. The deadline for them to submit signed petitions to my office is August 7, 2023. Then, I would conduct my prima facie review, followed by requesting your office to verify signatures (30 business days). Based on my estimates, it would appear that, if enough signatures qualify, the certification would be presented to City Council on October 3 or 17. They have 14 days after that to order/call the election, or can be done at the same meeting. To allow for the 88 days, it pushes to the very end of December/beginning of January 2024, with the 125 days ending early/mid February.

There are limited options for the actual Election Day due to holidays (New Years, MLK Jr. Day), although the second provision of the Code also allows consolidation with a regularly scheduled election within 180 days, which the March 5 Primary fits in.

I will keep you posted as this moves along. Please let me know if you have any questions or need anything else.

Good morning Jennifer,

Here is the Statement of Registration Certification filed with the Secretary of State's office for the February 10, 2023 Odd-Year Report.

Will you be preparing an election calendar when the draft petitions are approved? Some cities do this; others do not. I will start to work on one, but since you have a better idea of meeting dates, etc. – I just thought I would ask.

Thanks.
